SOMMERRO

Oslo's new luxury hotspot is a social hub for bespoke cultural and culinary experiences celebrating Nordic culture.

Providing a home away from home for both travelers and locals, the iconic 231-room Art Deco hotel is complete with 56 branded residences, seven restaurants and bars, meeting and event spaces with capacity for up to 150 people, a 100-seat gilded theater, a landmark wellness space with a fully-equipped gym, and the city's first year-round rooftop pool, sauna, and terrace.

"Sommerro is more than a hotel. It is an iconic building housing years of history, located in one of Oslo's most vibrant and exciting areas. We want everyone to feel at home at Sommerro, whether you are a guest or a local seeking a place to hang out with friends, work, or simply relax in beautiful surroundings," says Petter A Stordalen, Founder of Nordic Choice Hotels, now known as Strawberry.

Nordic Cuisine with a Twist

Set to become one of Oslo's most coveted culinary destinations, Sommerro features seven restaurants and bars, including the city's only rooftop restaurant, and outposts from local favorites Barramon, a Spanish tapas and wine bar, and Plah, one of the city's most popular restaurants showcasing elevated cuisine by Norway's "Best Thai Chef" Terje Ommundsen, which will also offer an exclusive chef's table experience.

Meetings & Events

Sommerro boasts an extensive collection of historical meeting and event rooms welcoming groups of 12 to 150 people, which are all available to rent and come equipped with top technology. These cleverly designed spaces have the flexibility to host everything from an intimate dinner or a brainstorm away from the office, to larger events such as weddings or creative workshops.
